

3. Colours & Gold: Alice Irwin & Sinta Tantra at Pitzhanger

Colourful abstract shapes pop up in Alice Irwin's work but there's something human about them, as if they have their own personalities and communicate with each other in a secret language. She started off making prints and it now feels like her sculptures are characters that have popped off the page and become animated in our world of three dimensions. The manor will also be displaying the vibrant blue and gold paintings and sculpture of Sinta Tantra that will change how they look over the course of the day, complementing the architecture of the manor that was designed with sunlight in mind.

Alice Irwin: Chinwag and Sinta Tantra: The Lightclub of Batavia at Pitzhanger. Opens 24 January, £9.90
