As we begin to slow down and recover from whirlwind Hong Kong Arts Month this year, here’s an in-depth look at 8 of the many standout galleries at Art Central 2024.

On day one, we explored the works of Takashi Hara at A2Z Gallery, Nobody Here at Square Street Gallery, Hansaem Kim at ThisWeekendRoom, and Lee Namlee at An Inc. For day two, we Fer Francés walked us through picks from Madrid-based gallery VETA and Sovereign Art Foundation’s Marketing Director Tiffany Pinkstone unveiled the booth’s special concept.

Sovereign Art Foundation

Sovereign Art Foundation (SAF) is a charity that was established in Hong Kong in 2003 which brings the therapeutic benefits of art to disadvantaged children. The foundation runs both an annual art prize and an art prize for secondary school students in Hong Kong. For Art Basel, the foundation invites the alumni of both events to paint 25 cm by 25 cm works. All of the pieces are priced the same at HK2,500 and the artist is kept anonymous until the work is bought, forcing visitors to choose based on the art alone.
